

Misconception 2: Energy Density Limitations. LiFePO₄ batteries are often mistakenly thought to be inferior in terms of energy density when compared to other lithium-ion types, such as those based on lithium cobalt oxide (LiCoO₂). Although it is accurate that LiFePO₄ batteries typically exhibit lower energy density, they leverage this with unmatched safety and ...

I recently installed the EASun SMW 8k inverter, the equivalent of the MPP PIP-8048MAX. So far it would appear to be an identical unit based on comparisons to others in the manner it is operating (it has some rather interesting quirks it shares with the 8048MAX) but frankly, without someone doing a full teardown and comparison of the internal components ...

A battery that is not holding a charge or showing significant voltage drop under load needs immediate attention. Using a multimeter, measure the resting voltage of the battery and its voltage under load. A healthy 12V battery, for instance, should show a resting voltage of around 12.6-12.8 volts and not drop below 11.6 volts under load.

Ive got a 48v 5.5kw EA sun inverter (MPP clone) which ive been using successfully, however Ive recently put a 280Ah DIY battery pack together with a Daly 16s BMS. The issue is, the BMS reckons Im at 87% charge but the inverter is at 100%. This implies my battery settings are incorrect on the inverter with too low a voltage set.
