

What is a high voltage contactor?

ECP Series High Voltage Contactors are designed for battery energy storage systems, photovoltaic inverters, and EV chargers. Rated switching current 150A, 250A, 350A, breaking capability at 1500 VDC

What is a high voltage DC contactor/relay?

High Voltage DC contactor/Relay can be found in a range of applications, including consumer and industrial transport systems, uninterruptible power systems (UPS), solar energy systems such as photovoltaic (PV) and energy storage systems (ESS).

What is TDK high voltage contactor?

TDK offers the High-Voltage Contactors (HVC) series which meet the requirements for High-Voltage DC emergency disconnection applications up to 600 A in electric cars, trucks, busses and DC fast chargers. HVC series features excellent extinguishing characteristics in combination with a bipolar design for charging and discharging.

What are hermetically sealed contactors used for?

Our hermetically sealed contactors are widely used as automotive contactors or EV contactors for switching DC load of high voltage battery system in EV. And also used as DC power control in inverter systems, rapid DC charging station, Solar Photovoltaic and Wind power equipment, Energy storage, UPS (uninterruptible power supply), etc.

Which contactor is used during implantation of a DC switching contactor?

During the implantation of the contactor, the pre-charge contactor is used in combination with the main contractor. The dc switching contactors are used as a switch which opens to stop the flow of current or voltage and closes to start the flow.

How many contactors are there in a high-voltage front end Assembly?

In most of the hardware, two contactors are the part of the high-voltage front end assembly of components: main contractor and pre-charged contactor. During the implantation of the contactor, the pre-charge contactor is used in combination with the main contractor.
