Why has the US sped up the return of 4 million barrels?

WASHINGTON, Dec 1 (Reuters) - The U.S. Department of Energy has sped up the return of 4 million barrels of oil to the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, from a previous exchange of crude to energy companies, as it seeks to replenish the stockpile after a record drawdown last year, it said on Friday.

How long does it take for oil to enter the US market?

It can take only 13 days from a presidential decision for the first oil to enter the country's market, according to the US Department of Energy. Under a sale, the Energy Department usually holds an online auction in which energy companies bid on the oil. Under a swap, oil companies take crude but are required to return it, plus interest.
