The energy of the photon (E) can be be calculated using the equation ($E = \{hc \text{ over } \lambda\}$). In this equation Planck"s constant (h) and the speed of light in vacuum (c) are known values, so only the wavelength (λ) is needed to calculate the energy. Converting photon flux (photon over {second}) to radiant flux (W): ...

Why Solar electricity Pay back of investment after 5-8 years. The mode of data acquisition by ICESat-2 is along-track. Thus, to generate a bathymetry at a synoptic level, seafloor depths identified by the water-penetrated photons should either be used as seed points together with the optical remote sensing data or be interpolated to generate a surface from a set of multibeam photon clouds gathered from multi-date ICESat-2 ...
