Renewable energy in the Cook Islands is primarily provided by solar energy and biomass. Since 2011 the Cook Islands has embarked on a programme of renewable energy development to improve its energy security and reduce greenhouse gas emissions, [1] with an initial goal of reaching 50% renewable electricity by 2015, and 100% by 2020. [2] The programme has been ...

The average daily incident shortwave solar energy in Cook Islands is gradually increasing during August, rising by 0.7 kWh, from 4.2 kWh to 4.9 kWh, ...

Rakahanga is also included in the project. The solar energy project batteries life span is 8 to 10yrs when they all need to be replaced. As batteries fail there will be an increase of diesel generator usage to top up the battery charge. This is expected because we are in the 10th year of the expected life span of the systems batteries.

There are three main sectors dependent on imported energy in the Cook Islands; these include transport, electricity and aviation. Of the total number of imported fuels into the country, 43% is used by transport; 30% by aviation and 27% by electricity. The Cook Islands has decided to work with one sector at a time, beginning with the

Around 4.2 MWh of energy storage capacity will be connected to a solar and diesel micro-grid on Rarotonga, the largest of the islands in the South Pacific nation. Three 40-foot containers with a ...

The first of four solar power stations commissioned under the Cook Islands Southern Renewable Energy Project will be officially opened on the island of Mitiaro this week, bringing the Cook Islands one step closer to its long-term renewable energy targets.

Infratec Chief Executive Greg Visser said the four solar plants were now providing clean, reliable and affordable energy to almost 1500 people - or about 9 percent of the Cook Islands' population. The solar panels, which are backed by battery storage, will meet about 95 percent of the islands' energy needs, he said.
